Absentee voting ends

Voters who will be out of the county on Tuesday may cast absentee ballots at the Crittenden County Courthouse. A voting machine is available through 4 p.m., Monday at County Clerk Carolyn Byford's office.

Time to Fall Back!

Daylight Saving Time will come to an end Sunday as the nation switches back to Standard Time. The change, as usual, will be at 2 a.m., but most people change their clocks before going to bed the evening before, which in this case, will be Saturday. A change in federal law switched the start and stop of Daylight Saving Time to March and November several years ago. We'll change back to Daylight Saving Time in early March.

Christmas Parade

Marion Christmas Parade will be held on Dec. 6. Traditionally, the parade attracts about 70 entries. To put a float or other entry in the parade, contact Marceia or Jeff Ellis, co-chairpersons of the event, at 270-704-3234. See page 8B for more.

T.O.N.E-z tix on sale

Tickets for the Nov. 22 T.O.N.E-z and Big Atomic concert at Fohs Hall are $10 and will be on sale from 10 a.m., until noon Saturday at the Fohs Hall lobby. Organizers of the event expect a sellout and if advance ticket sales meet expectations, there will be no general admission the night of the concert.

Public meetings

Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce will meet at 8 a.m., Tuesday at the Marion Welcome Center.

No more Wednesdays

Beginning next week, residents are reminded that the Crittenden County Convenience Center will no longer be open on Wednesdays. However, the Saturday hours will be longer, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The center is open those same hours on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday.

Ready at the Ballot

the Day

Crittenden County Clerk Carolyn Byford, who is the county's top election official, is flanked by poll worker Donna Perryman and deputy clerk Donna Shewcraft at last week's Election School at the Marion Ed-Tech Center. Poll workers earn $120 for working on election day and they pick up another $20 for attending the two-hour election school. Anyone interested in working the polls next election can contact Byford at the courthouse.

GOP leading local registration

STAFF REPORT

About two-thirds of Crittenden County residents are registered and eligible to vote, according to information provided by Clerk Carolyn Byford, who is the top election officer in the county.

However, only about half of those registered will likely vote when polls open Tuesday.

For the first time in memory, registered Republicans outweigh Democrats by a slight margin with 3,061 claiming allegiance to the GOP and 3,043 registered as Democrats. There are 290 registered under the "other" category, which includes 152 independents.

Women voters slightly outnumber men in this county with 3,421 registered females. Registered men are 288 fewer, which mirrors a traditional statewide trend.

Polling places will be open from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m., Tuesday. Election returns

Shewmaker now part of museum's history

BY JASON TRAVIS
PRESS REPORTER

History has always fascinated Roberta Shewmaker. As curator of the Crittenden County Historical Museum, Shewmaker has led many tour groups on a journey back in time to explore the rich heritage of Marion and Crittenden County.

"I think the older we get the more interested we are in the things we used to have," Shewmaker said. "So many have said they wished they had asked their parents and grandparents about different things."

Last weekend, the museum closed its doors for the season. It also marked Shewmaker's retirement as curator, a position she's

Judge increases woman's bond to $100,000

STAFF REPORT

After hearing evidence last week against Chasity Lynn Jackson, the 31-year-old Marion woman accused of running down her ex-boyfriend with a pickup truck, District Court Judge Daniel Heady ordered her bond increased to $100,000 cash.

After about 15 minutes of testimony during a preliminary hearing last Wednesday in district court, the judge found probable cause to send the case to a grand jury next month. Judge Heady also said that the original bond of $10,000 cash was insufficient based on the seriousness of the crime for which Jackson stands accused.

Testimony during the hearing and court records indicate that Jackson has been in court three previous times for assaulting the same man, 42-year-old Johnny Travis.

Policeman Robert Harris testified last week that based on his investigation, he believes Jackson ran over Travis just before midnight on Oct. 14 in a grassy, vacant lot at the corner of Lewis and Travis streets near Veterans Park. Travis has undergone two surgeries since the incident and may face more.

The policeman who testified in court said he responded to a 911 call the night in question. When he arrived, Travis was next to the road on his knees and covered in blood. The officer

Court records indicate the suspect had on three previous occasions assaulted the same victim and was on felony diversion at the time of the latest alleged incident.

Interim jailer’s time ends with Tuesday’s election

STAFF REPORT
Phil Parker says he has less than a week left as Crittenden County Jailer.

The former Kentucky State Penitentiary warden has told county leaders that his job is nearly complete, after more than 14 months as interim head of the Crittenden County Detention Center.

At the Oct. 16 meeting of Crittenden Fiscal Court, Parker submitted a letter to magistrates and Crittenden County Judge-Executive Perry Newcom outlining multiple improvements made at the local jail, as well as his concerns for the county once a newly-elected jailer takes over the 133-bed facility.

Parker has indicated that his resignation will be effective midnight Nov. 4 – Tuesday – following the general election, when a new jailer will be selected by local voters.

Kentucky law says the newly elected jailer shall take office the first Monday of January, but county leaders have said the new jailer – who will be chosen next week – will have an opportunity to take the reins immediately, if so desired. An appointment by the county judge-executive would duly execute the process, county leaders said this week.

If the newly elected jailer declines an early appointment, Crittenden County Judge-Executive Perry Newcom said that between next week and Jan. 5, the jail will continue routine operations under the direction of the trained staff, the county sheriff and the fiscal court.

Newcom said the deputy jailer and Class D coordinator are fully capable of handling daily operations at the detention center. By law, the sheriff is effectively the jailer when that position is vacant.

Parker

Parker has told county officials that his last day on the job will be Tuesday, when either Republican Robbie Kirk or Democrat Daniel Kemper will be elected.

In a letter to the fiscal court, Parker addressed many areas of concern he found once he took over the facility from Riley last year.

“My experience in corrections told me security was sorely deficient and non-existent in many areas,” Parker said of the facility in August 2013. “Security doors were routinely propped open just for convenience. Costs for supplies and food were exorbitant and growing. Contraband in the form of drugs and tobacco was coming in from every direction, including corrupt staff.”

Parker revealed in his letter that he submitted his letter of resignation just two weeks into his appointment after “seeing the impossible challenge ahead.”

However, Newcom did not accept Parker’s resignation.

“I was overwhelmed, but I trudged on, one day at a time,” the jailer said.

Parker said he found the jail to be “dangerous and out of control.” He also realized the jail could bankrupt the county if changes were not made.

“...It was abundantly clear the jail and the county were in trouble and headed for disaster,” his letter said.

Over his 14 months however, Parker said many issues at the jail have been corrected. The jail has been kept near to above capacity, security issues have been shored up, expenses have been minimized, staff has been cut and contraband has been minimized. Additionally, policies and procedures have been updated and staff has been retrained.

“In other words, the fire has been put out, but there is more to do,” he warned magistrates.

Parker said he and his wife, Katie, and trusted staff have worked diligently to solve problems and get the lock-up ready for the new jailer, no matter the person. Still, he is worried about the facility’s potential to become a problem for the county.

“All of that said, I am deeply concerned and worried about the future of the jail and its impact on Crittenden County,” Parker wrote. “No matter how much management experience a candidate has in construction, police work or any other profession, nothing prepares them for the challenges of managing a jail except experience in a jail or prison.”

Parker said he and his wife have worked to hire experienced prison staff, and train existing staff, so that the new jailer can come in and let the jail run itself during their learning period, which he suggests could be several months.

Because of its general condition at this point, Judge Newcom expressed his confidence that the jail will be efficiently operated during the interim period without a jailer.

To the Kentucky Board of Education, Frankfort, KY:

In Compliance with Kentucky Revised Statutes and the regulations of the Kentucky Board of Education, we, the board of education of the above named school district, hereby submit for your approval the following tax rates levied on 09/04/2014.

For rates that exceeded compensating and HB 940 tax rates, the notice and hearing requirements of KRS 160.470(7)(b) shall be published at least twice for two (2) consecutive weeks, in the newspaper of largest circulation in the county; the public hearing which shall be held not less than seven (7) days nor more than ten (10) days after the day that the second advertisement is published; and have been met.

An advertisement was placed in the The Crittenden Press newspaper on 08/21/2014 (date of first advertisement) and 08/28/2014 (date of second advertisement).

The public hearing was held on 09/04/2014.

For rates subject to review, an additional advertisement was made on within 7 days of the hearing as required by KRS 160.470(8). Once the thirty-day (45) days have passed since the rate was levied, we will send notification of whether a valid petition was presented. If a valid petition was presented, we will indicate whether we intend to place the issue before the voters for approval.

If advertisement was required, the rates levied do not exceed the proposed rates advertised.

To the voters of Crittenden County:

Now that the general election is drawing to an end I would like to thank each and every household that gave me the opportunity to share my vision about the issues and plans I have for the county jail. Thank you for your encouraging words and support.

I have attempted to reach out to every household in Crittenden County and I know I have missed a few. I have spent more than six months both in the primary and general election period going door to door and have been able to visit and share my plans with many of you.

I want to thank Daniel Kemper for running a straight forward and clean campaign. At the end of the day we are still neighbors and friends as it should be.

I am asking for your support and vote in next week's general election for jailer.

Our right to vote and choose our leaders is a fundamental right to us all, but exercised by only a few. I hope you will take the time to vote.

Williams again chief of region

Fifth Judicial Circuit Judge Rene' Williams has been re-appointed by Supreme Court Chief Justice John C. Minton as the Chief Regional Circuit Judge for the Purchase region, which consists of 20 counties, including Crittenden. This will be her fourth two-year term, having been first appointed in 2007.

Judge Williams was elected in 1989 as District Judge for Crittenden, Union and Webster counties and served as Chief Regional District Judge during her 15 years on the District Bench. She began serving as circuit judge in November 2004 when she was appointed by the governor to fill the unexpired term of retired Circuit Judge Tommy Chandler. She was elected in 2006 and is unopposed on Tuesday's ballot.

Judge Williams began the 5th Judicial Drug Court Program in 2005. She also serves on the Kentucky Bar Association Legislative team for the 1 s t S u p r e m e Court District. In July 2014, she was appointed to serve on the Henderson Community College Foundation Board. She is a member of the Dixon General Baptist Church.

The purpose of the Regional Administration Program is to expedite the disposition of litigation in the region through equalization of work among the judges, to promote uniform procedures and practices through equalization of work among the judges; to provide for prompt substitution when a judge is disqualified or there is a temporary vacancy; and to assist the chief justice in discharging duties under the state Constitution.

said Jackson and a four-year-old child were also at the scene. Police say the man and woman have a child together and were meeting for a custody exchange.

Harris told the court that based on evidence found at the scene, he believes Jackson drove her Chevrolet pickup off the street and into the grassy area, striking Travis. The patrolman said he found the victim's cap and a shoe about 56 feet away from the street. He told the court Travis was possibly dragged that far by the vehicle.

The victim suffered multiple injuries, including 11 broken ribs and two collapsed lungs. The officer said he arrived on the scene one minute after receiving the 911 call. He characterized Travis's injuries as life-threatening.

"I called for (the ambulance) Signal 9 which means emergency traffic," Harris told the judge.

Travis was taken to Crittenden Hospital for initial treatment and evaluation and later transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Evansville.

According to court records, Jackson pleaded guilty to a domestic violence charge of fourth-degree assault in 2005. Travis was the victim, according to court records. In 2011, Jackson pleaded guilty to the same charge – against the same victim – and was ordered to have no violent contact with Travis for two years in order to earn a conditional discharge. In 2013, Jackson was again charged with fourth-degree assault because of an attack on Travis. That time, the charge was en-will be announced as they are tabulated at the courthouse. The Crittenden Press will be posting election results online following tabulations by the clerk's office.

The county's polling places are the same as during the primary election last spring. Voters in precinct 4 might be reminded that they now cast ballots at the Marion Ed-Tech Center. Residents in that precinct formerly voted at Crittenden County Elementary School.

Tuesday's general election will be the first in decades, according to Clerk Byford, in which Republicans outnumber Democrats. Crittenden County is also the only red county in far western Kentucky.

Registration has flipped since the last election in the county when Democrats outnumbered Republicans by 16 voters in the May primary election.

In fiscal court races, Republican Magistrate Jeff Ellis is seeking re-election against Democrat Danny Fowler in a Democrat-heavy District 1. Democrats hold a 464-442 advantage in the combined two precincts.

Meantime, in the District 5 race for magistrate, Democratic incumbent Donnetta Travis' party is outnumbered 611-599. Travis faces Republican challenger Wayne Winters.

In other voter registration figures from Crittenden County, seven claim to be Libertarians and one is of the Social Workers Party.

Lynn Bechler, the current Kentucky House District 4 representative from Marion, faces overwhelming registration numbers. There are more than twice the number of collective Democrats in Crittenden, Livingston, Caldwell and the portion of Christian County comprising the district. There are only 9,771 Republicans versus 19,763 Democrats. The disparity didn't have much of an effect on Bechler the last time he ran and defeated Princeton Democrat Raymond Gian-nini.

Perhaps the most observed race in Kentucky – and beyond – on Tuesday will be that of U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell, 72, seeking a sixth term in Washington against 35-year-old Democratic challenger Alison Lundergan Grimes.

Through the Secretary of State's website, sos.ky.gov citizens can verify their polling place, check the races in which they are eligible to vote and research candidates.

Information about individual candidates is also available on the Secretary of State's website.

visitors would be either local or from faraway places. One day a tourist visited from Seoul, South Korea.

Among the museum's many items on display include artifacts from different wars, several spinning wheels, a 200-year-old loom and a collection of photographs, books and scrapbooks. Shewmaker said some of her favorite pieces are the Depression-era glass dishes. She's also fond of the antique Permanent Wave Machine and called it a great conversation piece. She said school children always enjoy viewing both the courthouse and locomotive bells and find the ball and chain that used to restrain local prisoners fascinating.

"A lot of people enjoy looking at the old pictures of Marion and the businesses that used to be here. We had two distilleries, bottling companies, feed mills, a tannery and a brick factory," she said. "A lot of people came into town. They would ride the train and come into Marion."

Last winter the museum received a number of items, including yearbooks, to add to its memory room that was moved from Fohs Hall. Shewmaker enjoys viewing the photos and scrapbooks and can remember her own mother using many of the household items that are on display, including the irons and washtub and board.

In recognition of her retirement as curator, members of the historical society expressed their appreciation to Shewmaker for her work and dedication to the museum.

"Roberta has been a great asset to the museum and the board regrets that she will not be returning next year. During the time she has been the curator she has always been a welcoming and friendly face to all the visitors and always willing to go that extra step to help everyone with their questions," said local historian Brenda Underdown. "She has willingly given of her free time to help with extra activities that we have had at the museum. We wish her the very best in the coming years."

Shewmaker plans to keep active in several groups and organizations in which she is associated. She's also looking forward to spending more time with her grandchildren. Still she calls her time at the museum a great education.

Bernice Maroney, who was museum curator years ago, is returning to the post in the spring.

"I have learned a lot. There's more to be learned, but I have learned a lot here. It's been educational to me also," she said.

The Crittenden County Historical Museum season is open from the beginning of April through the end of October of each year.

It's more than civic duty to cast a vote

What will God expect of you on Tuesday? Some will say they just won't vote at all. Then that gives the less desirable candidate two votes. They did not get a vote cast against them, and their opponent did not get a vote to help defeat them.

We have to vote for the candidate that will help us stand against the evils that are bringing God's wrath down upon us.

Our country is in terrible trouble with God. Do you want proof?

ISIS has promised death to all Americans and many have infiltrated this country. It has influenced many of our own to kill neighbors and friends.

Ebola is as deadly as the Bubonic Plague that killed over 200 million and 60 percent of Europe at one time.

Why? The sins that are flaunted in the face of God Almighty have come due, and we will repay with wholesale repentance or death.

When you go into that little booth Tuesday know that God is with you.

So many people are married to a party. They will sell their soul to vote for whoever is running on that ticket and make an excuse that God will not accept. We have to vote for the person who will be closer to the Constitution, or the lesser of two evils. Why all of a sudden are we faced with such deadly and powerful enemies for whom we are so unprepared?

Why is our way of life in such jeopardy? Why is there so much uncertainty?

The answer is because people are so uninformed on God's laws, and the history of His enactment on the obedience and disobedience of those laws.

So many times I want to scream at the talking heads on television when they ask why is everything in such a mess? I want to tell them it is because America has left God!

When America was honoring God, when families followed the Golden Rule and the Bible and prayer were in schools and home, our country was safer, we were happier and our country was respected around the world. We were blessed by God.

All we need to do is look around us. The sin against

God is a putrefied, running cancer.

Nothing is sacred any more. There is such filthy language. Many do not marry; they just shack up. Honor and virtue are not prized. Honesty is rare, and breaking God's laws on sexual behavior is everywhere from the streets to television. Filth is everywhere.

We have fallen so far so fast that it boggles the thinking and caring mind and heart.

My cry to God is "When will Americans wake up?"

We cannot keep wading in the sewer and think business will go on as usual. God's judgment is on us. What will you do about it? Will you repent, or ask for His wrath on all of us?

Eighty-six percent of Americans say they believe in God. What an insult to God when the majority of Americans support ideals that are contrary to His Word.

God's mercy is remarkable. We know that because in the New Testament a man and his wife were struck dead for lying to Peter only once. Peter said, "You lied to the Holy Spirit."

Instead of striking us dead, God is sending a slow death in the form of ISIS, home-grown Muslim murderers and Ebola.

Dear ones, we will repent, or we will perish!

So I beseech all of you to vote Tuesday and ask yourselves, "Who would Jesus have us support?"

ELECT DANIEL KEMPER
CRITTENDEN COUNTY JAILER

If I wanted something, I worked hard and got it on my own. I have never had to ask anyone to give me anything. Campaigning door to door and asking for your vote has been very humbling. If I have not yet had the opportunity of meeting you in person, I am truly sorry.

If elected on November 4th, I'll work with the fiscal court to pursue legal avenues of income for the jail. One of these being state litter abatement contracts with adjoining counties. With the existing staff, we will ensure policies and procedures are accurate, up to date, and followed to maintain safety and security. We will continue to refine expenditures by constantly monitoring cost of supplies and contracts. The cost of food has risen from $145,000 to $206,000 and with good reason. Food costs increase because the jail is now at capacity (133 inmates), but the cost per inmate/per meal is $1.41. For the record $1.41/per meal is in line with neighboring jails and below the state average. We can't feed 133 inmates for the same price as we did 80 and 90 inmates. The revenue has drastically increased too. This is the first year the jail has not asked the fiscal court for money above appropriations during the first quarter.

I've heard your concerns about inmates at the convenience center, dog shelter, food bank and others. If elected, these concerns will be addressed.

Knowing this office is not a one-person show, I am not too proud to ask for advice from staff, other jailers, correctional officials, or anyone with the willingness to offer it. I have learned throughout the years to take advice, use what applies, and save the rest for another day.

I would like to thank the people of Crittenden County for your support and encouragement during this campaign. I will not let you down.

See you at the polls November 4th!

DECISION 2014
THE TRUTH IS...

When my opponent was asked at the Tolu Town Hall meeting, "Do you know you can't use inmate labor for profit"? He replied, "I don't know that."

The State Auditor in the 2012 audit of the Lewis County Jail stated (pg.55,56) "We find no statutory authority for a county jailer to sell inmate manufactured items to the public and use the profits from the sale to support the jails vocational training program. KRS 441.135(2) states all profits from the canteen shall be used for the benefit and to enhance the well-being of the prisoners. Allowable expenditures from a canteen account shall include but not be limited to recreational, vocational, and medical purposes."

The 2005 Kentucky Dept. of Corrections Jail evaluation study at page 13 states "Commissary Profits... All Jailers acknowledge that the funds must be used for inmate services and CANNOT be used to pay for mandated equipment or services (such as beds)..."

I have personally discussed the proposed mattresses for profit idea, as outlined in last week's candidate survey, with several county jailers and past correctional officials whom have over 100 years combined experience. They are all adamant, a county jailer can not use profit from inmate labor to build or remodel a jail. They explained it this way: "If you could use inmate labor for profit, why would you choose a mattresses factory? Why not mow yards, build homes, or pour concrete for profit?"

One jailer said if you could use inmate labor for profit, you would want a 1,000 bed jail then you could fund the entire county.

New understanding for an old problem

A recent study of 14 healthy 2 and 3 year olds and their parents has learned more about why some young children have a hard time settling into sleep at night. Many parents know all too well the frustration of careful preparation of their young ones for bedtime, only to be met with requests to stay up later or crying out for water after being put down.

The researchers at Brown University in Rhode Island found through the first comprehensive method of studying this problem that the children's inborn circadian rhythms were not coordinating with the parents' ideas of the best bedtime. In other words, the children were responding by instinct to their body's guidance about the time to sleep. If they tried to conform to their parents' efforts to settle them down, they could not do so without a long delay.

The researchers also pointed out that if sleep problems are not resolved when children are very young, they may keep having sleep issues as they grow older. Such problems often result in attention deficits as well as emotional and behavioral difficulties. Their school work may suffer. Families with children, who cannot sleep well, may be less peaceful. They may have chronic fatigue. Moms and dads may be irritable with each other and with their children.

What can be done early on in the lives of young children with sleep problems? Parents must watch their children's evening behavior closely for clues about when they are ready to go to bed and fall asleep. They can help matters along by saying no to television, computer or video gaming, as bedtime gets closer. The light and movement in the small screen is too exciting for young nervous systems that need to quiet down. Routinely reading stories, singing or other quiet activities may also help children quiet down.

Coordinating bedtime with a young child's circadian rhythms and scheduling needs of other family members could be challenging. However, working with the inborn rhythms of the young child and setting him on the path that is right for him could prevent a great deal of trouble as life moves along.

Christmas is around the corner

Sign-ups were held last Friday at Emmanuel Baptist Church for those who did not complete the Community Christmas three-class requirement or who had missed previous sign-up dates. Community Christmas organizers expected over 50 families that met qualifications to sign-up. Distribution Day for Community Christmas is Dec. 19 at the National Guard Armory in Marion. This marks the 40th anniversary for Community Christmas in Marion. Shown above, Ashley, Brendan and Josh Sisco meet with Community Christmas volunteer Kathey Penn Belt.

Berry participates in honors academy at MSU

STAFF REPORT
Crittenden County High School student Jacob Berry received the Certificate of Recognition from the Commonwealth Honors Academy at a reunion of Academy scholars held at Murray State University Sept. 27.

Berry and 93 other students completed the three-week academy at Murray State between June 7 and June 28. During that time the academy scholars took two college-level courses, attended multiple lectures, concerts, field trips and forums. They also participated in a tri-weekly personal development seminar. As a successful graduate of the academy, Berry will receive six hours of university credit, a $2,000 per year Murray State University housing scholarship and the option to take six additional hours from Murray State University tuition-free.

Currently in its 15 year, the mission of the Commonwealth Honors Academy is to challenge, educate, enlighten and nurture the next generation of academic, civic and business leaders in the region.

To qualify, students must have a 3.5 GPA on a 4.0 scale and an ACT score of 25 (or equivalent SAT, PSAT, or PLAN scores).

For more information or to find details on applying to the 2015 Academy, visit the Academy website at www.murraystate.edu/CHA.

Vote for Sen. McConnell

Mitch McConnell has a history of supporting gun rights as well as fighting to save jobs at USEC in Paducah and in the coal fields. He was very much in the minority in saving the fishing below the dams for all fishermen and commerce.

The U.S. Senate works on a seniority system. The longer members serve, the more powerful they become, which means that they can do more for their state – and therefore the more we benefit.

The choice is ours. Vote for what may be the most powerful senator (if Republicans win the majority as predicted), or vote for the least powerful – an Obama rubber stamp, inexperienced freshman senator.

Please vote for McConnell Nov. 4.

Thank You

We would like to thank everyone for their kindness shown during the passing of our loved one Orville Gass. Thank you to Bro. Jake Brantley and Bro. John Dunn for the very comforting service, Denver Robertson and Shari Thompson for the beautiful music, the pallbearers and the emergency personnel that responded to our call on Wednesday morning. Thank you also to everyone that sent flowers, paid visits, shared words of comfort and especially your prayers. A special thank you to the staff of Gilbert Funeral Home.

Thank You

On behalf of Brenna Belt, daughter of Jamie Belt, I would like to thank everyone for all that they have done for us during this difficult time. To the Crittenden County Class of 1995, you have gone above and beyond. I can never thank you enough, especially for starting the college fund for Brenna.

May God bless each of you,

Brooks enjoys first semester at Gatton Academy

By JASON TRAVIS
STAFF WRITER

Although he doesn't return home every weekend, it was important for Hayden Brooks to watch the Rockets play their homecoming game against Webster County in September. Brooks made the trip home from Bowling Green to attend the game and participate in homecoming festivities. This semester, he began attending the Gatton Academy at Western Kentucky University.

The Gatton Academy is Kentucky's only state-supported, residential program for high school students with interests in advanced science and math careers. Students complete their junior and senior years of high school living on campus at Florence Schneider Hall and take classes alongside regularly-enrolled college students. At the end of their two-year course of study, they graduate from high school and earn at least 60 college credit hours. Students accepted into the program are evaluated based on ACT/SAT scores, high school grades, awards, responses to essay questions and additional testing.

Brooks said he is enjoying his time on the Bowling Green campus and describes it as a nice experience in a good community, adding administrators made everyone feel well received from the start.

"The head of the academy

spoke to us and welcomed us. It was a good atmosphere to come into and helped the adjustment going from high school to college," he said.

This semester Brooks is studying the basics: English, chemistry, computer science and math. Next semester he will begin focusing on more career-oriented classes which can include mechanical engineering or a research project. He would like to pursue a career in mechanical engineering or the physics field.

One result of the Gatton Academy is its students learn about taking responsibility and becoming independent at an earlier age. To safeguard students and to keep them focused on their education, rules are in place and 10:30 p.m. curfews are set during school nights.

Brooks said he most enjoys the campus community and calls it a close group of individuals that provide the tools to ensure the success of the students.

The goal of the Gatton Academy is to enable students skilled in science and math to learn in an environment that offers advanced educational opportunities while preparing them for leadership roles. The Gatton Academy assists in preparing Kentucky to compete in a knowledge-based economy by increasing the number of scientists and engineers who live and work in the state.

Brooks is the son of Jeff and Julie Brooks of Crittenden County. He is the third Crittenden County High School student to attend the Gatton Academy.

Teaching students the importance of safety

It was all about safety last week at Crittenden County Elementary School. Students learned about the dangers of fire from forest ranger Chad Brothers and his friend Smokey the Bear. Students also learned about keeping safe around electrical wires and equipment. It's the great pumpkin!

Are pumpkins fruits or vegetables? That was the question posed to preschoolers in Angel McDonald's classroom on Monday. Frankie Vailes of the Crittenden County Conservation District presented a lesson on pumpkins. Students got the opportunity to wear blindfolds and tried to identify various fruits by touch and smell. They also learned if a pumpkin would sink or float, what pumpkin seeds taste like and tasted a desert made from pumpkins. Radio guy’s sauce tunes up taste buds

PRESS REPORTER

What began as a hobby is now turning into a successful business enterprise for a Marion native.

One year ago Kent Crider began marketing his own brand of barbecue sauce. Crider, who hosts a morning radio program on K-103 in Cape Girardeau, Mo., had been making his own barbecue sauce for a number of years before he was encouraged to get it on the market. Now it’s available for purchase at many retailers, including Conrad’s Food Store in Marion.

Described as having a sweet, heat taste, Crider said the barbecue sauce has a bit of an apple flavor that mixes well with traditional barbecue menu items. Or it will simply add flavor to anything from bologna to brisket. It’s also popular as a dipping sauce and can be added to different meals such as chili or burgoo.

“It’s got a sweet start and then you get a little bit of a pepper and then it goes away. It doesn’t stay and burn your mouth where you have to keep drinking water or milk,” he said.

Since its debut last October, over 135 cases of the barbecue sauce have been sold. Sales were good through last winter even though that isn’t the best grilling season, he said.

Consumers recognized Crider’s face and name – being a radio personality, he’s fairly well known – on the bottle’s label and began purchasing it for stocking stuffers. It was also promoted and sold well for Super Bowl parties and later as Father’s Day gifts.

The label design is a logo of Crider’s face used in radio promotions for a number of years. Colors and lettering were created by his step-daughter Kendra, who majored in graphic design at Southeast Missouri State University at Cape.

Marion native Kent Crider is the host of the morning program on K-103 radio in Cape Girardeau. He’s also a barbecue sauce maker and his product is now appearing locally at Conrad’s.

Unlike most sauces which have a mixture of ketchup, brown sugar and corn syrup, Crider’s recipe includes secret ingredients that help it stand out. He said the taste is palatable for individuals of all ages. Many people have complimented its unique flavor and told him it doesn’t taste like a copy of other brands on the market.

“If you’re going to go to the trouble and expense of putting a sauce out with your name on it, you don’t want it to taste like everyone else’s,” he said.

From Kansas City to Memphis, barbecue has always been serious business for Crider, who has participated on a number of barbecue cook-off teams and competitions. He enjoys barbecuing and had the occasion to meet with famous barbecue pit masters, including Chris Lilly from Alabama’s Big Bob Gibson Barbecue. While he didn’t cook with Lilly, he said he appreciated the opportunity to meet with him and learn about some of their barbecuing techniques.

Crider, who has been in radio for 35 years, began his career at a station in Paducah in 1979. Since then he’s worked in the Nashville, St. Louis and Cape Girardeau media markets. In 1984 he received the CMA Broadcast Personality of the Year award.

He offered his appreciation to the management at Conrad’s for stocking the sauce and helping get the word out about his product.

Policy proposed to deal with performances at local schools

BY JASON TRAVIS
PRESS REPORTER

Creating a new policy on guest speakers and performers at school functions was discussed at a working session of the Crittenden County Board of Education Oct. 23. Superintendent Vince Clark proposed a policy to board members that relates to how speakers or performers would be vetted and approved – or not approved.

As proposed, language in the policy would require that all guest speakers or performers at any of the district’s schools have prior approval of that school’s principal.

In situations where a guest speaker or performer’s appearance would go beyond the school and become a district-wide event, then the request would come through the principal to the superintendent. The superintendent would then report to the school board for its approval or disapproval on the matter.

Clark emphasized to board members the new policy would not replace a fundraiser request or facility use agreement.

The school board was expected to approve first reading of the new policy at its meeting Tuesday night.

School officials cited the need for such policy after the cancellation of rapper T.O.N.E.-z’s scheduled appearance at the Pink Out football game earlier this month. Concerned parents and members of the faith-based community cited concerns over explicit lyrics in some of the artist’s songs. While the performer was not expected to sing those songs at the game, school officials were concerned that his appearance would send the wrong message to students.

“Some of the lyrics, some of the messages in some of the songs did not align to the values we want to promote as a school district,” Clark reiterated to board members regarding their decision to cancel the performer’s appearance.

The Emmy-nominated artist is expected to return to Marion in November. The rapper will perform along with local band Big Atomic Nov. 22 at Fohs Hall. A portion of the proceeds from the event will be donated to special needs children.

NEXT WEEK’S GENERAL ELECTION

2 constable races are contested

STAFF REPORT

There will be two contested races at the polls Tuesday for constable in Crittenden County’s six districts.

The Crittenden Press sent questionnaires to candidates in the races in order to gather information to generate an article about the races. In District 1, both Republican Barry R. Brown and write-in candidate Russ Eaton responded to questions. However, in District 3, neither incumbent Democrat Roy Todd nor his Republican challenger, Paul Beard, returned the surveys.

In Kentucky, constables are peace officers with broad powers of arrest and authority to serve court documents. According to Kentucky statutes, constables have the authority to enforce both the traffic and the criminal code of the state. They may execute warrants, summonses, subpoenas, attachments, notes, rules and orders of the court in all criminal, penal and civil cases. In fact, the word “cop” is an acronym for constables on patrol.

In District 1, Brown, 60, is a U.S. Army veteran and retired law enforcement officer with almost four decades of experience. He has lived in the county for nine years.

“I feel that my 37 years of law enforcement as a police officer, Kentucky State Trooper and chief of police in Hollow Creek and Sturgis, Ky., shows that I have the education, training and experience to more than adequately perform the duties of constable,” Brown said of his qualifications for the position.

Eaton, meantime, is a 59-year-old who has lived in the county for 16 years. He drives a dump truck for Tim Johns Trucking in Sturgis. He is a Vietnam veteran and is assistant fire chief with Mattoon Volunteer Fire Department, where he has served the last four years.

“I feel as if I could do a good job helping people, upholding the law and backing up law enforcement in the county,” Eaton said.

As a write-in candidate, Eaton’s name will not appear on ballots, but poll workers will help voters cast ballots for write-ins. Eaton and C.L. McDaniel, an unopposed candidate for constable in District 4, are the only local write-in candidates.

Grocers bag $507 for ACS

STAFF REPORT

The annual Grocers Against Cancer campaign to benefit the American Cancer Society has raised more than $500 in Marion.

Last week, volunteer “celebrity” baggers helped carry out groceries at Conrad’s Food Store. Tips and donations from patrons and the grocery store will benefit the American Cancer Society, said organizer Margaret Gilland.

This year’s effort raised exactly $507.66, which Gilland said was $10 more than was raised a year ago during the project.

Big Rivers WMA hunt

The Big Rivers Wildlife Management Area in northern Crittenden County and southern Union County will host its quota rifle deer hunt Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 1-2. This is the second year for a management-wide hunt. However, last year’s quota was only 40 hunters. This time, 100 will be allowed on the WMA with rifles. The drawing was held this past summer.

Marion Big Buck Expo

Marion Baptist Church will host its seventh annual Big Buck Expo starting at 7 p.m., Friday, Nov. 7. Billed as a “deer hunting extravaganza” the event offers a variety of entertainment and fellowship and a faith-based message. This is a free event and dinner will be served.

Big Buck Contest

The annual Big Buck Contest sponsored by Hodge Outdoor Sports and Marion Tourism Commission is now registering contestants. Sign up at Hodge’s to be eligible for the $1,000 cash prize for adults or a mounted deer in the youth division. It’s $5 for adults and $1 for youths 15-under to register.

LBL refuges closing

Land Between the Lakes will close nine wildlife refuges to human entry and all activities including hunting, fishing and boating starting Nov. 1. These areas will remain closed through March 15. These closings are part of the normal routine at LBL. The wildlife refuge closures include portions of Duncan Bay, Smith Bay, and Rushing Bay on Kentucky Lake; Fulton and Honker Bays on Lake Barkley; the western one-third of Energy Lake; and Long Creek Refuge at the back of Elbow Bay. These areas are marked with buoys or signs. Entry is prohibited during the closure. The refuge closures provide undisturbed resting and feeding areas for waterfowl, shorebirds and eagles. Hematite Lake and Honker Lake, two inland bodies of water, are also closed to fishing and boating during this period. Waterfowl hunting is not permitted within 200 yards of a refuge boundary.

BASKETBALL

Little league girls

Lady Rocket Little League Basketball registration is Saturday morning at 9 a.m., for K-2 grades; 10 a.m., for 3-4 graders and 11 a.m., for 5-6 graders. Cost is $25 per player, but there is a discount for families with multiple players. Each session lasts one hour at the Crittenden County Middle School gymnasium. For more information, contact Lady Rocket coach Shannon Hodge at 270-704-0593.

Dubious role in Kentucky history

Rockets give Caldwell QB room for record

STAFF REPORT

Barry Bonds beat Hank Aaron’s home run record with a solo shot off Brewer’s pitcher Chris Capuano. Hank Aaron topped Babe Ruth’s homer mark with a dinger off the Dodgers’ Al Downing.
Caldwell County quarterback Elijah Sindelar set the Kentucky High School career touchdown passing record against Crittenden County Friday in a 63-6 Tiger victory.

Yep, it’s a dubious footnote to football history, but the Rockets were there with a front-row seat. That’s about all you can say about this lopsided affair. Caldwell was – as anticipated – far superior. The Tiger JV squad was on the field before halftime and the clock was running continuously (mercy rule).

The senior QB Sindelar sliced away at the Rockets with mostly short passes. He threw downfield some, but it was a sideline screen to Dee Cain for 10 yards that broke the state record of 133 career TD passes, previously held by South Laurel’s Ricky Bowling and more notably Leslie County’s Tim Couch. Sindelar, who will be playing collegiately at Purdue in the Big 10, has started at Caldwell since he was a freshman. His statistics against Crittenden over the years have been greater than gaudy.

His numbers last week were nothing spectacular, but his four-year body of Rocket quarterback Nick Castiller (15) is guarded by running back Lane Wallace (25) on a pass play against Caldwell County last week.

work will be widely acclaimed across the commonwealth. After all, one of the guys he surpassed with this record was an NFL No. 1 draft pick. Now that Sindelar has the 134 TD passing record, his sights are set on surpassing Couch at No. 3 on the all-time passing yardage list.

Caldwell scored 35 unanswered points in the first period Friday. As far as anyone knows, it was the most points Crittenden has given up in a single quarter, ever. The Tiger defense scored twice on interception and fumble returns and the punt team tacked on another TD in the first half.

The Rockets did get on the scoreboard at the end of the contest when reserve tailback Charlie Johnson broke open for an 81-yard touchdown run.

The Rockets and Bulldogs are pitted for their second matchup of the season this week. Because both schools have had scheduling difficulties with other teams, they have opted to play one another twice. Crittenden beat Fulton 37-6 on Aug. 22 to open this year’s campaign. Fulton and Fulton County also play twice this year and Fulton will still have just nine games for the season.

The Series:

Crittenden County leads the series by a razor’s edge 21-20. The Rockets have won the last five, however, and 17 out of the last 18 matchups.

Fulton’s Worksheet (1-7)

CCMS kicks off basketball year

The eighth-grade Rockets will have plenty of depth, speed and size to handle most of its competition, said coach David Perryman. Hunter Boone, Sawyer Towery, Gavin Dickerson, Devon Nesbitt, Ethan Dossett, Payton Riley, Wyatt Gipson and Sean O’Leary are all fighting for playing time. Caldwell and Trigg counties will be their toughest opponents.

The seventh grade will improve when Gavin Davidson returns from a baseball injury. In the time being, Erik O’Leary will run the point. Jayden Carlson provides plenty of height at 5-11, said coach Bryce Winders.

Shelby Summers, Kenlee Perryman and Brandy Book are expected to carry the scoring load for the eighth-grade Lady Rockets this year. Summers and Perryman are leading scorers from last year’s seventh grade team.

The seventh-grade Rockets are paced by twins Emmie and Ellie Smith and sixth-grader Nahla Callaway.

The “Tackling for a Cure” T-shirt campaign raised over $5,700 to give to charity in the name of Shelley Boyd, the wife of Caldwell County Superintendent Carrell Boyd, who is suffering from breast cancer. Crittenden and Caldwell schools sold T-shirts to raise the money last week and a presentation was made by Crittenden County to Boyd after Friday’s football game. Then, both teams came together for a group prayer (above) led by Carrell Boyd.

Resurrecting Stump Lake

Big Rivers wants bass, fowl back in one of area’s favorite fishing holes

STAFF REPORT
Fishing and duck hunting are bouncing back at Stump Lake on the Big Rivers Wildlife Management Area. John Zimmer, WMA manager, said the lake was once a big attraction for anglers and waterfowlers, but the wetland area was drained by the previous property owner, leaving only a few puddles. No fish survived and if any ducks were using the place they were scarce. "There are stories about big bass coming out of Stump Lake before it was drained," Zimmer said. Restoration of the lake started last Tuesday. Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) personnel cut the levy and removed a three-foot culvert that had been responsible for sucking the lake dry. In its place, the KDFWR installed a water control device that will allow personnel to raise or lower lake levels in order to improve waterfowl habitat. When it refills from runoff and rain, the lake will be back to around 20 acres as it was during its glory, Zimmer said. It will be maintained at that level year round, and even larger during the fall and winter, following harvest season. "We will be able to seasonally flood about 15 additional acres of cropland," Zimmer said. That should attract a variety of ducks. The area will be a perfect nesting area for wood ducks and Zimmer predicts puddlers will use the area, too, while passing through on normal migration routes. "There will be fishing opportunities, too," he said. The lake will be restocked and Zimmer hopes its reputation as a trophy bass site will return. The lake is located less than a mile north of KDFWR headquarters on Ky. 365 in the Crittenden County portion of the WMA.

Big Rivers WMA will re-store Stump Lake to its former glory with at least 20 surface acres of water year round. In the winter, KDFWR will flood about 15 more acres of nearby crop fields, which will likely attract water-fowl.

4 dead in Cadiz shooting, including gunman

ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kentucky State Police say four people were found shot to death in a western Kentucky home near Cadiz. Police say the victims were Lindsey Champion, 62; his wife, Joy A. Champion, 60; and the couple's daughter, daughter Emily K. Champion, 31. Police say the fourth person, 22-year-old Vito Y. Riservato, is suspected of shooting the others. An adult son of the Champions survived. The shootings took place Sunday at the Champions' home in Cadiz. The motive remains under investigation. Police are still investigating the relationship between Riservato and the Champions. They think the suspect might have known the family briefly before the shootings. The wife was a retired school teacher and Mr. Champion was a longtime director of Farm Credit Services. The daughter was a 2008 graduate of Auburn University veterinary school.

I would like to ask for your continued support in re-electing me to the Marion City Council and to thank you for your past support.

Farming integral part of local history

Farming has always been a way of life for many Crittenden Countians. Once there were many small farms across the county. Farmers were able to provide a living for their families and even make some income from their land. Farming was an important topic that was always being discussed with hopes of improving the land and the crops that were produced.

As early as the year 1897, there was a series of articles in The Crittenden Press featuring some of the farmers in the different areas of the county and the crops they were raising.

It seems Crittenden County had a fairly large agriculture business at this time and good, hardworking farmers to produce the crops.

May 27, 1897

Si Franklin of Levias was in town yesterday with a fine young saddle horse for sale.

W.H. Ordway, one of the most extensive tobacco raisers in the county, has reduced his crop this year.

Mr. G.H. Shreever says in the View neighborhood there is a 100-acre wheat field that does not look like it would be worth cutting.

John Shaffer has been selling strawberries. He raises them as large as peaches and has a half-dozen different varieties.

Mr. George Hughes of Weston advertises the Rose Eran, an Irish potato new in this section. He has been raising potatoes all his life and pronounces this the best variety he has found.

Mr. A.J. Bennett of Tolu was in town Tuesday. He is one of the extensive farmers of Tolu, the greatest corn growing neighborhood in the 1st Congressional District. Mr. Bennett has 300 acres of corn planted.

June 3, 1897

J.H. McDowell of Shady Grove said there will not be more than half an acreage of tobacco in his section this year.

Mr. J.C. Adams has cut down his tobacco acreage this year. His crop will be 25 percent less than last year.

Mr. J.F. Conger, one of the thrifty farmers of Pleasant Hill neighborhood, had nine acres of tobacco set the middle of last week. He said he has wheat that will yield 25 bushes per acre.

W.C. Tyner has plowed his corn three times and said his is the best in the neighborhood. Notwithstanding his superior farming qualities, Mr. Tyner finds time occasionally to fox hunt.

Squire E.H. Taylor of New Salem, as he is known, having once served as a justice of the peace, has one of the prettiest homes on Salem Road. He has a fine farm too. He is a successful farmer, making his farm produce well.

June 10, 1897

Joe Samuels of Repton was delivering corn to parties in town yesterday.

George D. Kemp of Shady Grove brought his old reaper to town Wednesday in exchange for a new one.

Horace Williamson is the only person to report that he will have a larger acreage of tobacco this year than last.

Mr. E. L. Nunn of Bells Mines was in town Tuesday. When asked for news, he replied with enthusiasm, "A fine rain yesterday. We are up in our work and crop prospects are encouraging. If there is no hitch anywhere, we will have plenty of hog and hominy in my section in due season."

Mr. Owen Boaz, who owns a pretty farm on the Dycusburg-Marion Road, was in town Saturday. He is in good spirits over the prospects of a good crop. Mr. Boaz is one farmer who does not believe in the virtue of commercial fertilizers. He thinks they ultimately improve the land.

Mr. David Gilliland, one of the tireless farmers of the Hurricane country, was in town Tuesday. He is small in stature but when it comes to moving things on a farm, he can do more than two large men. He is in charge of Foster Threlkeld's large farm this year and is keeping up with 250 acres of corn.

Occasionally, a farmer takes hold of an old farm and makes it a thing of beauty. Dan Green took the old Akers place on Fords Ferry Road when it was thought past redemption. The fields had been termed out for years. Green set his wits and muscle to work, and now he has as cozy a place as there is on the road.

The persimmon bushes and gullies have disappeared and in their place are productive fields. A handsome cottage has replaced the old house and everything has a prosperous look.

Mr. William H. Bigham reports the farmers of Chapel Hill neighborhood are finished setting out tobacco. He reports the following crops: Wm. Bigham, 6 acres; Carl Minner, 5 acres; Spillman Hill, 4 acres; Burl Walker, 8 acres; Eura Bigham, 5 acres; Charles Clement, 8 acres; Albert Walker, 4 acres; and J. C. Adams, 4 acres.

A number of these watered the plants as they were set. These men are not bent on big crops, but they are determined to measure up to the best in quality.

Chapel Hill always has good tobacco, and the growers have learned that the better the tobacco, the better the price, and they are now going for the top figures.

The Chapel Hill folks say they are going to take the "cake" from the Woodall tobacco this year or know the reason why. (Andy Woodall, who lived in the Piney Creek neighborhood, had the reputation of being one of the finest tobacco growers around.)

June 17, 1897

Mr. A. Weldon of Tolu was in town Tuesday. Albert has recently retired from the mill business and has invested more extensively in farms. He has a fine farm near Tolu.

Mr. E.L. Horning hauled two loads of tobacco to town Saturday

J.N. Bracey estimates threshing out 1,500 bushes of wheat this season. Harvesting will begin this week.

Mr. John Asbridge brought a lot of honey to town Saturday and soon disposed of it. He took 100 pounds from four stands of bees. He has the hives arranged so the honey is deposited in pound cases and sold without breaking the comb.

Col. A.D. McFee, one of the best farmers of the Fords Ferry area, is selling his last year's crop of corn this week. It sold at 30 cents per bushel and will deliver several hundred bushels.

One farmer friend of The Crittenden Press in musing over the dark side of farming, which hangs continually before every ambitious man, dropped into a deep reverie and expressed the misery that hung over his soul as follows: There's a chinch bug on the wheat,

A cut worm on the corn,
There's interest on my note,
A mortgage on my farm.

A few years later, in the early 1900s, a Farmers Union was organized. The farmers and businessmen of Marion formed this new organization. They knew how important farming was for the benefit of the county.

The organization was to help the farmers have a fair and profitable income for their sweat of hard and honest labor. It would assist farmers in buying and selling and learning new scientific methods of farming.

History tour targets fifth grade students

STAFF REPORT

It's funning how spoon-fed history lights up a child's face. Dozens of fifth graders paraded through town last week for the annual local history and cultural tour of the city.

The project started a few years back and was the brainchild of Marion Main Street and Crittenden County Elementary School educators. The primary idea was to expose local children to the historic value of Marion's "inner city," and perhaps they would embrace it – maybe even share it with others.

"Welcome to the Crittenden County Historical Museum," said Roberta Shewmaker, curator of the Bellville Street center for artifacts that was originally built in 1881 as a Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

"I wish you would bring your parents back sometime," Shewmaker told the students.

The curator just finished her final season running the museum. She said most visitors are from out of town. She wishes more local folks would check out the interesting items at the museum.

"It's probably 3-to-1 out-of-towners to local people who come in," Shewmaker said.

Truly, history isn't highly appealing to most folks. But for a fifth grader, the statue of fully-gearred fireman is pretty cool. That and other exhibits at the downtown museum drew finger pointing and some subtle comment.

Coleman Stone, a student on the tour, said he found several interesting stops along the way. He was especially interested in the town's old churches and some of their storied history.

"It's a great opportunity to share our community's past," said Frank Pierce, a city councilman who led one of the groups through downtown, pointing out places of interest and interpreting the historical significance of each stop.

Brenda Underdown, the community's official historian, was among the tour leaders. One can't help but see the satisfaction on her face during the yearly affair, which is woven into the school's curriculum.

"One student asked me, as I was telling them about the Marion Junior High School and how the clock tower was saved from the school that was built in 1895, 'Why did they want to save it?' Why didn't they just get a new one,'" Underdown explained.

"I was able to tell him that by saving it, it was preserving part of the history from the first school, and that is what history is all about. To me that just summed up the whole purpose of the history tour," Underdown added.

Organizers hope the tour will spark an interest in youngsters, so they have an appetite to learn the town's history.

"It is rewarding to see our teachers want their students to learn about local history. This means so much to have the students actually see the places that we talk about and take notes on each place that we visited," Underdown said.

"It is great to see the young people learning about the history of the town and their heritage. Now as they go through town they will recognize and know what many of the buildings used to be and how they got started," the local historian added.

Fifth graders made numerous stops around Marion during their historic tour last week. The annual walking history lesson through town is sponsored by Marion Main Street and elementary school educators. At top are Tanner Beverly, Hayden Adamson, Maddox Carlson, Tyler Pigg and Katlyn Kirk reading an historic marker at the courthouse. Directly above is tour guide Sara Ford, a former city councilwoman, discussing the historic significances of several Main Street buildings. At top left on this page are Harley Morris and Tate Larue checking out attractions in the downtown museum.

The American Red Cross encourages eligible donors to make a point to give blood before the busy holiday season arrives.

Blood donations often decline between Thanksgiving and New Year's Day as people become busy with holiday festivities. Donors are needed in the weeks leading up to the winter holidays to help prevent these seasonal declines. Donors of all blood types, and especially those with types O negative, A negative and B negative, are needed now to help maintain a stable blood supply.

Blood donation appointments can be made through the Red Cross Blood Donor App or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) to learn more about donating blood.

A donation opportunity exists from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., on Nov. 5 at Livingston Hospital Health Care Services in Salem.

Jobless rate falls in KY, but up in U.S.; Crittenden is same Kentucky officials say the state's unemployment rate in September dropped to its lowest rate in more than six years, but the U.S. rate went up in the same period. Crittenden County's jobless rate remained unchanged from August to September at 5.7 percent.

The Kentucky Office of Employment and Training said last week the seasonally adjusted jobless rate fell to 6.7 percent last month, down from 7.1 percent in August. It's the lowest statewide jobless rate since July 2008, when the rate was 6.6 percent.

Officials say last month's statewide decline was the biggest one-month drop in unemployment rates since 1976.

The preliminary rate for September was 1.6 percentage points below the 8.3 percent jobless rate in September 2013. Last month's rate was the lowest for the state since July 2008 when it was 6.6 percent, which was during the financial crisis.

"A steep drop in unemployment combined with gains in hiring and consumer spending are clear indicators of a growing economy," said economist

Jarrod Jackson
FOR KENTUCKY STATE REPRESENTATIVE

As a former 7 term State Representative for the Kentucky 4th Legislative District (Caldwell, Crittenden, Livingston and part of Christian Counties) I am familiar with the qualities needed to be an effective Representative for one's constituents. Foremost, among them are living, knowing and sharing the people's values, beliefs and aspirations.

The candidate for the 4th District Kentucky Representative who possesses all of these qualities is Jarrod Jackson, a young, hard working attorney from Princeton. He's a family man who's lived his entire life in Western Kentucky except for going to Murray State University and Law School in Northern Kentucky; his family likewise. Both of his parents are local retired teachers.

Jarrod is a conservative Western Kentucky Democrat who believes in less government and that political decisions should be made at the lowest possible levels. He has absolutely no allegiance with, or responsibility to, the current administration in Washington. In fact, he differs with the President on the major issues related to our state such as carbon emissions and EPA regulations. Quite frankly, and we know it will happen, attempts to portray him as some sort of vassal to President Obama is simply wrong and an attempt to trick voters and distract attention from important local Kentucky issues.

Space precludes, as it should, longer discussions of Jarrod's qualities and positions. So I'll conclude with the brief statement that he is pro gun, pro life, believes in the sanctity of marriage, is dedicated to improving economic opportunity for all and will always vote the opinion of his constituents.

I support Jarrod Jackson and without reservation recommend him to district voters as your next State Representative. Oh yes, and I also support him because he's a nice young man, polite, respectful, enthusiastic, intelligent and he listens. In short, I like him~ you will too.

Sincerely submitted,

Mike Cherry

Pet homes, blankets are needed as winter nears

BY JASON TRAVIS
PRESS REPORTER

Autumn's cooler nights signals winter is just around the corner. Officials at the Crittenden County Animal Shelter and Mary Hall Ruddiman Canine Shelter suggests pet owners make sure their animals are safe from winter's harsh elements.

Kristi Beavers is the manager of the Mary Hall Ruddiman Shelter. She encourages pet owners who keep their dogs or cats outdoors to provide a sheltered bed filled with straw or blankets.

"If it's extremely cold we always suggest putting them inside a garage where they are out of the freezing temperatures," Beavers said. "If we're cold, they are cold. That's always a real good rule of thumb."

Old blankets or bales of straw are good options to place in a pet's bed. Beavers also stressed the importance of keeping pets off the cold ground by supplying a pallet for them to lie on.

She said both shelters could use donations of pet food and indicated the brand name isn't that important, but the donation of food is greatly needed.

Individuals can also help by donating old blankets and towels to the local shelters. At the Mary Hall Ruddiman Shelter, Beavers said they cut blankets to size to fit beds, so it wouldn't matter if the donated items had holes or not. Donations of straw would also be welcomed for both shelters.

Beavers said it cost about $100 to adopt a non-trained dog at the Mary Hall Ruddiman Shelter. She said that's a bargain, considering the dog will be spayed or neutered, current on vaccinations and heartworm negative. Dogs are also kept current on monthly heartworm and flea and tick preventative medicines.

Dogs that have participated in the Kentucky State Penitentiary of KSP training program cost $175. Beavers said with the extra expense, individuals receive a trained dog that is current on vaccinations and the mandatory county dog license.

"Plus we care for them," Beavers said. "We watch them closely and make sure there aren't any health issues."

It costs $60 to adopt a dog from the Crittenden County Animal Shelter for those living in Crittenden, Livingston and Lyon counties. The cost includes a tag and a series of vaccinations.

For more information or to view available pets for adoption visit the Crittenden County Animal Shelter at www.crittendenshelter.blogspot.com and the Mary Hall Ruddiman Shelter at www.maryhallshelter.blogspot.com.

Officials said both shelters are always in need of donations of dog and cat food, treats, collars, leashes and blankets.

Copper thefts prompt reward

STAFF REPORT

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) and Kentucky State Police (KSP) are joining forces and offering a reward to attack a crime that is costing Kentucky taxpayers millions of dollars – theft of copper wire from highway lighting systems.

"The crime of copper wire theft from lights that illuminate our roadways is literally highway robbery of Kentucky drivers," KSP Major Mike Crawford said at a news conference.

Nancy Albright, Deputy State Highway Engineer in charge of operations and maintenance, said KYTC engineers estimate that thieves have caused at least $2 million in damages in the last four years. In 2014 alone, thieves have pillaged entrance and exit ramp lights on our interstate highways at least 37 times.

Also of concern is the safety of motorists.

To fight back, the two agencies are offering a reward of up to $2,500 for information leading to arrest and conviction of those responsible for copper wire theft from highway lights.

Social Security bump will be about $20 month

ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the third straight year, millions of older Americans who rely on government benefits can expect historically small pay increases come January.

Preliminary figures suggest the annual cost-of-living adjustment for Social Security recipients, disabled veterans and federal retirees will be less than 2 percent. That translates to a raise of about $20 a month for the typical beneficiary.

The government was scheduled to announce the increase Wednesday, when it releases the latest measure of consumer prices. By law, the increase is based on inflation, which is well below historical averages so far this year.

More than 70 million Americans, including more than 2,000 in Crittenden County, receive benefits affected by the annual increase. The average monthly Social Security payment is a little less than $1,200 a month.

OLD FASHIONED SERVICE IN A NEW BANKING WORLD

TO CRITTENDEN COUNTY VOTERS

Dear Crittenden Countians,

As we approach the November 4th general election, I want to take this opportunity to express to the citizens of Crittenden County my appreciation of your continued support in allowing me the privilege of serving you as Crittenden County Judge Executive. Although I am unopposed in the upcoming election, I feel it necessary to ask for your support for another term as your Judge Executive.

As I look at the past four years and the number of accomplishments that we have had, I feel very good about our future. With continued support of the public and the judicious work of the entire fiscal court, we will continue to address the tough issues with a common-sense approach to ensure the best possible results for our community as a whole.

Please know that my goal is to continue providing sound leadership for all of Crittenden County as well as the surrounding area and the State. I am honored to serve on numerous local, regional, and state boards and committees since being elected Judge Executive and feel that the exposure for our county will lead to many opportunities moving forward. I will also continue the practice of providing periodic updates on your local government via my Judge's Journal report in The Crittenden Press and will continue the practice of hosting community meetings on subjects of vital importance to all citizens. I do this to ensure that everyone has an opportunity to know the issues and to provide any comments that may be relevant to those issues. I will continue to have an open-door policy. I sincerely appreciate those who take time to be involved in our community and who share any thoughts or concerns regarding the many facets of our local government.

In closing, I want to emphasize that I seek re-election because of the support from the citizens in our community. Please know that I pray for our community, state, and nation daily and hope that you do the same as we continue to experience unprecedented challenges. We will overcome these challenges if we all continue to work together seeking the best for the whole, not necessarily the individual. I ask that you go to the polls on November 4th and cast a vote for the candidates of your choice.

Respectfully,

Perry A. Newcom
Candidate for re-election as Judge-Executive of Crittenden County

Paid for by committee to elect Perry Newcom, Ramona Ford Treasurer

"I have personally witnessed it."

Jeff Pettit

Dear Voters,

My name is Jeff Pettit. My wife Michelle and I live in Webster County where I serve as Chairman of the Webster County School Board.

In 2013 it was time for the school board to interview applicants for the position of school board attorney. Brandi Rogers submitted her application along with several others. After the interviews we chose the person most qualified to serve as our legal counsel.

When Brandi Rogers assumed her position as Attorney for the Webster County School District, we were spending countless hours in disciplinary hearings and spending thousands of dollars annually on old litigation issues. Within Brandi Rogers' first six months of serving as the board's attorney she had provided solutions to more efficiently handle the hearings and had helped resolve all litigation issues. She even went above and beyond in helping to train staff and volunteers on matters that range from booster clubs to introducing an intervention program to help children at risk of losing their ability to attend school.

If all attempts failed at keeping children out of disciplinary hearings then Brandi Rogers conducted those hearings, and in a manner that exemplifies how effective she would be sitting on the bench as your next Family Court Judge. I have personally witnessed it.

Brandi Rogers has the highest level of professional work ethic. Her goal has never been to build billable hours in defending people with legal issues. She wants those that she represents to be educated and informed so they don't have to be defended!

I urge you "Please" to check out both candidates that are running for the office of Family Court Judge to represent your families in Webster, Crittenden and Union counties. If you do that and you base your voting decision on the facts and qualifications, it will be obvious to you who is best qualified to serve as your next Family Court Judge: Brandi Rogers!

That is why Michelle, Nolan, Ashley and I all support Brandi Rogers as your next Family Court Judge and I ask that you do the same!

Jeff Pettit

A ham radio operator since 1954, Tom Paris said communicating around the world has always been one of his favorite hobbies, and he’s had many other interesting jobs and opportunities.

Remarkable life story started with love for aircraft

Paris rubbed elbows with stars, Reagan; worked on B-1, Space Shuttle

BY JASON TRAVIS
PRESS REPORTER

Tom Paris always dreamed about flying. As a young boy growing up in Marion, he spent countless hours researching the subject.

“From the time I can remember that’s all I was interested in was flying. I read every book,” Paris said. “That’s all I did was read while growing up.”

That early education turned out to be invaluable. Paris was instilled with the desire to reach new heights. Paris, 85, now lives near Burna. But he fondly recalls a life and career in aviation that allowed him to do more than pilot his own airplanes. He helped others explore their dreams in aviation by working on the space shuttle and B-1 bomber programs.

Before graduating from Marion High School in 1946, Paris worked for a few years at The Crittenden Press. In 1947 he left Marion and headed to Chicago where he attended Coyne College and studied electronics. A few years later, he visited in-laws in southern California, for what was supposed to be a two-week vacation. Instead it turned out to be the beginning of a life-long career in aeronautics. He applied for and received a position at North American Aviation, which later became Rockwell Aviation and eventually Boeing.

Paris said the day he moved from Chicago it was 10 degrees below zero. When he arrived in southern California, it was a balmy 73 degrees.

North American Aviation’s main headquarters was in El Segundo, Calif. He began work there as a tool and die maker. He climbed the ranks and years later accepted a position in Palm-dale, Calif., where he eventually would receive his master’s degree in aeronautical engineering from Laverne College and became general manager of engineering for Rockwell Aviation.

In between that time, Paris stayed busy pursuing his dream of flying his own aircraft. He obtained his pilot’s license in 1957 and eventually owned two airplanes, one being a Stinson Station Wagon.

He recalls Los Angeles had just as many airplanes in the air as cars on the road. Big name celebrities also enjoyed sailing above the earth in planes. Paris became well acquainted with legendary actor Jimmy Stewart. Both kept their planes in nearby hangars and spoke often on their common interest in flying.

He also got the opportunity to meet other stars in Hollywood thanks to a chance to shoot commercials at Universal Studios. After flying a helicopter in an air show, he was approached by an executive who wanted to put Paris’ flying skills into commercials, including those for Kodak and Chevrolet. While at Universal he met a number of stars, including Doris Day and Barbara Eden. He kept his Screen Actors Guild card for a decade.

Paris also had the opportunity to meet a very famous former actor and politician. Ronald Reagan was campaigning for president and Paris approached the candidate about the B-1 Bomber program. Reagan reiterated his commitment to the aircraft. Paris would eventually supervise a crew on the B-1 project that did everything from blueprint designs to mechanics and engineering.

Paris also had a crew that worked on the hydraulics and landing gear for the Space Shuttle program. He said it was an interesting job and remembers many details about the cockpit area of Space Shuttle Discovery, the third of the five space shuttles built.

After retiring from Rockwell in 1987, he spent several years touring North America. Highlights of his cross-country tour included his time along the Rogue River in Oregon and fishing in Yellowstone National Park.

He moved back to western Kentucky in 1992 to be closer to his children. He still operates a ham radio after receiving his license in 1954. He was issued the highest radio license the government allowed after taking a test to demonstrate proficiency on the international requirement for Morse code. Over the years he’s spoken to individuals in 113 countries and continues to enjoy communicating with people around the world.

Recalling his career in aviation, Paris said one of the great joys in flying is how it has a way to put life into proper perspective.

“Just to be off the ground was a pleasure,” he said. “I only lived two miles from the airport. I would get my plane and take off and fly for 45 minutes and land and everything was okay. Whenever you’re flying, you’ve got your mind on flying and nothing else.”

Chamber seeking marshal nominees

STAFF REPORT

Crittenden County Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominees to be considered for Grand Marshal of the 2014 Christmas Parade.

The parade will be at 1 p.m., Dec. 6 in downtown Marion.

A grand marshal, or marshals, is chosen annually to head the parade. The Chamber honors someone from the community, or beyond, each winter whose service to the community makes them worthy to lead the event.

This award is presented to an individual or group who has consistently made a difference in our community, but has not received public recognition for their contributions, the Chamber said in a news release.

“Often this will be the person who gets the project completed or makes sure everything is done with little or no self-promoting,” the Chamber explained.

“Many times, this person or group has worked on their own time and generally is not compensated. They go beyond the normal demands and may also involve service to country, to a non-profit or positions achieved on state, national or international level,” the news release said.

Nominations should be made by Nov. 21 and mailed to Jeff Ellis, parade chairman, 8808 US 60 East, Marion, KY 420364 or contact Ellis by phone at 270-704-3234.

Applications for parade entries may be picked up at the Marion Welcome Center.

Gas prices still hover at 2010 levels

The U.S. average price of gasoline – $3.03 per gallon – continues its slide to levels last seen in December 2010... and today, more than one-half of the nation’s gas stations offer regular gasoline at prices below $3 per gallon.

GasBuddy.com reports that of more than 133,000 gas stations from which it gathers retail price data via crowd-sourcing, the ‘tipping point’ in this year’s autumn price decline was reached over the weekend when the number of stations selling gas below $3 climbed to 50 percent of all retailers across the U.S. The last time half of the nation’s fuel retailers were priced below $3 was Dec. 28, 2010.

“It may seem difficult to believe but gasoline below $3 per gallon can now be found at stations in 47 states,” said Patrick DeHaan, senior petroleum analyst with GasBuddy. “With multiple factors pushing retail prices lower in most parts of the country, we expect we’ll see the national average fall below $3 per gallon before Halloween.”

The family of Paul Tabor would like to express our appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown to us during the loss of our Dad (Daddy Pete). Thank you for your prayers, phone calls, food, cards, flowers, charitable donations and visits to the funeral home. Thank you to the members and ladies of Creekside Baptist Church for the wonderful dinner. Thank you to Pastors Rogers Holloman and Troy Newcomb for their words of comfort. Thank you to the staff of Boyd Funeral Directors for their many acts of kindness. Thank you to Missy Newcomb for her special song. A special thank you to the staff of Crittenden Health Systems, Dr. Gary James and Dr. Jonathan Maddux for the excellent care given to our Dad.

*In deep appreciation,
The Tabor Family*

Who Should You Trust to Solve Your Housing Needs? It's Elementary, Watson!!

Dear Voters of District 5,

(Precincts 3, 6 and 12)

People have asked me why run an ad for re-election when you are running unopposed.

My response:

This is not simply an ad asking the people to vote for me, but my way of saying THANK YOU. I want you to know that I value YOUR OPINIONS. I appreciate YOUR VOICE, and I would not be here on the Crittenden County School Board without YOU!

I want you all to know that it has been my honor and privilege to serve as your representative on the Crittenden County School Board for the last twelve years. Over the course of those twelve years, I have always put our students and their education first. I have strived over the years to make decisions that would improve the quality of education our students receive so they are prepared for the future.

With your guidance and support I have been your voice, making every effort to be a good steward of your tax dollars and have continually voted against tax increases when they were unnecessary.

I ask that Tuesday, November 4th, when you go to vote to simply cast a vote for me, if YOU still want that VOICE on the School Board.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Orr
